

How to add your bookplate

Getting your name inside every copy — three simple ways.

Your bulk order ships as finished books. Your name goes in on a bookplate — a small card or label carrying “Provided to you by [Your Firm]” with your logo and contact info. It sits inside the front cover. The book’s text stays independent; only the insert is yours. You have three options.

1. Adhesive sticker EASIEST

Print the sticker sheet (6 per page) on label stock — e.g., Avery-style 3×4” labels — peel, and press one onto the inside front cover. Fast, tidy, and it won’t fall out. Best for 10–100 copies. We supply the sticker template; you fill in the brackets and print, or a local print/label shop does it.

2. Tipped-in full-page insert MOST ELEGANT

Print the full-page bookplate (8.5×11) on nice cardstock and “tip it in” — a thin line of glue along the spine edge inside the front cover so it stays. Looks like part of the book. A local print shop can do this quickly for a whole order.

3. Bound-in custom page BEST AT VOLUME

For large orders (roughly 100+), a short-run printer can bind the page right into the book — fully integrated, nothing to insert. This needs a dedicated print run, so it’s cost-effective only at quantity. We’ll get a printer quote when your numbers are there.

To customize your bookplate

- Send us your firm/church name, logo, contact name, phone, website, and address.
- We drop them into the template and send you a print-ready proof to approve.
- Choose sticker or full-page; we hand off files, or arrange printing and insertion for you.

Printing tips

- Stickers: matte white label stock reads best against the cream cover.
- Full-page inserts: 80–100 lb cardstock feels substantial and tips in cleanly.
- Print in color so the red frame and your logo pop.
- Hands-off option: we ship you the books plus a stack of your pre-printed inserts, and your team slips them in.
